

SPIRITUAL TRUTH

By Victor Zammit

Our planet is in serious trouble and desperately in need of leaders and citizens with the kind of spirituality that is evidenced by the level of one's moral consciousness and the nobility of one's character, ideals, aspirations, and efforts. Our spirituality is best informed and guided by spiritual truth, the highest form of truth, which never changes, is eternal, and is an ever-reliable guide in our lives.

The greatest spirit teachers, who reside in the realms of the highest vibrations and spirituality, are dedicated to serving others by sharing their common knowledge, especially about spiritual truth. This is often not easy. Together they lead a great organisation that works to share what they have learned from their high vantage point. They have stated that they fully agree in all their teachings.

Their group leadership was mentioned long ago by the famous spiritual writers Emanuel Swedenborg (1688-1772), Allan Kardec (1804-1869), and Stainton Moses (1839-1892), and more recently by the beloved spirit-guide teachers Red Cloud and Silver Birch, who appeared respectively in 1921 and 1932.

A more recent contact by this group of souls began in 1953, when some of them started to give messages to a resident of San Francisco, California, named Michael Flagg. Michael was a man of unusual integrity and spirituality, as defined above, who was drawn to investigate Spiritualism.

His first few experiences were so impressive that he sought more and more evidence, at public demonstrations, church message services, group séances, and private sittings with various mediums. In time he was led to top mediums in the world and had regular sittings to converse directly with some of the highest spirit teachers, which continued for thirty years.

The teachings were received through top class, spiritual, direct-voice mediums including

Leslie Flint and Estelle Roberts, all selected by the spirit teachers. The primary messages in all those teachings are:

- 1. That we need to greatly improve our spiritual development, which seriously lags behind our technical development;*
- 2. That we need to treat all humans as brothers and sisters;*
- 3. That we should be familiar with the major Spiritual Laws That Govern that they teach;*
- 4. That we should strive to learn the lessons that can only be learned on earth.*

These teachings form the foundation of The Universal Spiritual Brother&Sisterhood (USB), a non-profit, educational organisation, founded in 1956 by Michael Flagg, at the request of these great spirit teachers. Living them is the only way, those teachers said, that our world can conquer its major problems.

The USB publishes books and articles, makes presentations, and organises groups for study and discussion, etc. The teachings for the world are collected in its book, Spiritual Light, of over 600 pages. It received high praise from Deepak Chopra, Psychic World assistant editor Mathew Hutton, myself and others.

It is available from online booksellers and from the USB's website, www.theusb.org, where you can access much more information about the USB.
